Closing Remarks

OUTSTANDING STUDENT ORGANIZATION MEMBER RECOGNITIONS

Each year, the College of Natural Resources and Environment's student organizations recognize individual student members who have made outstanding contributions. Each outstanding member is selected by club officers and other members through a nomination and voting process.

American Fisheries Society, Virginia Tech Chapter

Jason Emmel

Jason's service to the chapter has been above and beyond the call of duty. Jason was instrumental in obtaining a $1,000 grant from the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries in support of this year's Mudbass Classic and all of the outreach events we conducted. Jason also volunteered and donated his time in support of two major raffle items at this year's joint meeting of the Virginia and Virginia Tech chapters. The knife and guided bow-fishing trip were very popular and led to many raffle tickets being sold. As a full-time employee, master's student, husband, and father of three, the amount of support and service he has offered to our chapter is astounding.

American Water Resources Association

Taylor Haselton

Taylor provides effective and sustained service to the AWRA by volunteering at the Virginia Tech Science Festival, multiple guest lectures, and attending community outreach events. He also demonstrates personal characteristics that make him an inspirational role model for the diverse AWRA membership through his work as a firefighter/EMT in the Blacksburg community.

Bass Fishing Team

Andrew Davis

Andrew is a graduate student who has served as our treasurer since 2015. He has gone above and beyond to make sure that we raise enough funding and budget it appropriately so we can send as many teams to intercollegiate competitions as possible. This has made a huge difference in the club's national standings as well as the ability of all of our members to compete at their greatest potential. One of the main goals of our club is to advance the sport of bass fishing and make it accessible to as many people as possible. Andrew's efforts have gone a long way in allowing us to do this, helping us to boost our club roster to over 70 people and to offer benefits to members that allow them to learn and become more competitive and better fishermen.

Blue Ridge Chapter of the National Weather Association (NWA) and American Meteorological Society (AMS)

Benjamin Gruver

After only two years, Ben has easily transitioned into one of the prominent faces of meteorology at Virginia Tech. He has stepped in on many occasions when help was needed without expecting to receive anything in return. Not only is he there for the club at all times, he also is there for his classmates in times of need. His commitment to the club, serving as a student volunteer at the national AMS conference, and his high quality work in the classroom all justify him being named our outstanding member.

CNRE Student Council

Mason Leonard

Mason has been an integral part of the 2016-17 CNRE Student Council. He is always contributing new ideas and is encouraging to all members of the council. He is quick to offer assistance before it is even asked for. Mason's dedication to the success of the CNRE Student Council has been incredibly important in our second full year of operation.

Collegiate National Wild Turkey Federation at Virginia Tech

Bryce Young

Bryce is a senior majoring in mining engineering and will graduate this spring. Even though he has an extremely busy schedule, he is still able to help out at all of our events. He helped set up our Wheeling Sportsman Hunt, practiced shooting with the participant, and took the participant on the hunt. He has also been very helpful in setting up this year's and past years' banquets, and contributes good ideas for the banquet and club as well. Without Bryce, the organization would not be what it is today.

Fish and Wildlife Graduate Student Association

Anne Hilborn

As FIWGSA president, Anne has worked to improve the cohesion of the graduate student community and to better integrate new students into the department. She worked with administration to improve student advisor relationships. She and other graduate students have led skills-building workshops for graduate students, staff, and faculty. During her tenure, FIWGSA raised money by selling calendars and brought Dr. Heather Lynch in as an invited speaker.

Geographic Society

Lonnie Hamilton III

Lonnie has been a great asset to the Geographic Society this year. As a new member, Lonnie brought energy and enthusiasm to each of our club meetings. He is always eager to participate in our meetings and actively engages with guest speakers and other club members.

Geography Graduate Student Association

Breanna Prince

Breanna has contributed to the graduate community within the geography department in many ways, including her relentless efforts to build community at social events. She is quick to introduce herself, offer her assistance, and made efforts to bring the graduate group together to socialize. Breanna is one of the kindest people around, and she makes the geography office a welcoming place.

Packaging Systems and Design Club

Amanda Augugliaro

As the youngest officer on our team, Amanda has excelled in her role in the Packaging Systems and Design Club. She is the future vice president of the club and is well organized with great communications skills. She has good relations with both students and faculty, and is hardworking both in and out of the classroom. She is consistent in her work and is always willing to step up to take on another task without complaint.

Society of Renewable Resources

Jalen Hill

Jalen serves as treasurer for the Society of Renewable Resources and is very efficient at his job. He takes charge of all the club's financial assets and ensures we are in compliance with our by-laws and department rules. Jalen always ensures everyone has a good time with his upbeat personality and positive attitude.

Wildland Fire Crew

Kenny Townsend

Kenny joined the Virginia Tech Wildland Fire Crew in spring 2016. He has since stepped up into a major leadership role as vice president. Kenny has responded to a number of fires with the fire crew and has gone out of his way to help new firefighters through our training programs. He exemplifies strong leadership for the crew.

The Wildlife Society

Keiran Zwirner

Keiran has been an integral part of The Wildlife Society (TWS) since the beginning of his freshman year. He consistently attended each weekend of camera trapping for the past two years, accepting leadership responsibilities and training new volunteers early in his involvement. He served as the point person for camera trapping weekends when the camera trapping chair was unable to attend. Keiran represented TWS by competing in every Intramural Battleship game and filling in for other competitors as needed. Keiran went above and beyond his relentless involvement in TWS activities by leading a professional talk on the art and science of falconry. He planned an art and science of falconry seminar and coordinated with an outside co-speaker to present a fascinating and insightful session about the unique wildlife hobby. Keiran has demonstrated a strong ability to solve problems, care for others, and maintains event success. His dedication to this organization has improved the chapter for all its members, and The Wildlife Society thanks Keiran for his hard work.

Xi Sigma Pi

Hannah Nyquist

For two years, Hannah has been Xi Sigma Pi's treasurer and always makes sure our money is handled properly. Whether meeting potential inductees to collect dues or arranging service events, Hannah does her best to be available. She takes care of any situations that arise that require extra hands.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT RECOGNITIONS

College of Natural Resources and Environment Outstanding Senior

The Outstanding Senior Award honors a graduating senior from each department in the college who has demonstrated exceptional academic, extracurricular, and professional leadership. The Alumni Award for Outstanding Senior is chosen from among each department's outstanding senior awardees, and the recipient is recognized by Virginia Tech at the university awards banquet.

Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation—Allison Moser

Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation—Eli Podyma

Department of Geography—Rachel White

Department of Sustainable Biomaterials—Danitza Rodriguez

Allison Moser, Alumni Award for Outstanding Senior

David Wm. Smith Leadership Award

This award is presented to the graduating senior who, while engaged in productive scholarship, best demonstrates the traits of leadership, college and community service, and professionalism that have characterized David Smith's service to the college and the profession. The leadership award is chosen from among these department nominees.

Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation—Paige Crane

Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation—Michaela Wenger

Department of Geography—Kerrie Simmons

Leadership Institute

The challenges and opportunities across the landscape of natural resources and the environment require a unique blend of technical knowledge and leadership. The goal of the Leadership Institute is to equip students with the skills and tools needed to solve critical problems facing society in the management and sustainable use of our natural resources. The Leadership Institute is a nine-month experience for 12 students representing the entire college that focuses on the study and application of leadership principles. The generous support of our donors funds the College of Natural Resources and Environment Leadership Institute.

During the fall semester, students learn about different leadership styles, leadership theory, their Meyers-Briggs type, and using Meyers-Briggs types to better work with and lead others. Between semesters, the group travels to Charlottesville and Richmond to meet with representatives of private, state government, and non-governmental organizations. Travel continues to Washington, D.C., to meet with federal agencies and staff members for Virginia senators Warner and Kaine. In a very busy week of travel, our students experience organizational, political, and agency processes, and leadership at all levels. Spring semester is spent continuing the study of leadership, interacting with relevant leaders, and working on group projects that incorporate the concepts of leadership presented during the course.

Xi Sigma Pi National Forestry Honor Society

Xi Sigma Pi was founded in 1908 at the University of Washington as an honor society meant to recognize excellence among students of traditional forest management. The Chi Chapter of Virginia Tech, as have most chapters, has expanded its view of forest management to recognize fields such as fisheries and wildlife management, outdoor recreation, and forest products marketing and science as integral parts. In keeping with the stated national goals of the society, the Chi Chapter seeks both to recognize and encourage academic excellence among students of the College of Natural Resources and Environment.

National Wild Turkey Federation Scholarship

This scholarship is used to provide full or partial scholarships to junior or senior students who are in the wildlife option from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation in the College of Natural Resources and Environment.

Rasha Aridi

Martha Pennington Orth Memorial Scholarship

Established by Dr. Donald J. Orth in memory of his wife, Martha. Awarded to students in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation.

Lindsay Wentzel

Roanoke Valley Bird Club Fellowship

Established by the Roanoke Valley Bird Club to support graduate students in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation enrolled in a bird study program.

Henrietta Bellman

Samantha Robinson

Michael B. Wagner Memorial Scholarship

Established in memory of the 1996 fisheries and wildlife graduate by his parents, Barry and Donna Wagner, his family, and his many friends. Awarded to students in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation.

Christina Muehlbauer

Scholarships Administered by the Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation

Arborscapes LLC Urban Forestry Annual Scholarship

Awarded to undergraduate students majoring or minoring in the urban forestry degree option within the Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation.

Hannah Nyquist

Bartlett Tree Foundation Annual Scholarship

Awarded to students in the urban forestry program.

Daniel Black

Jillian Miller

John M. and Janet H. Doughty Endowed Scholarship

Established by John M. (forestry and wildlife, 1970) and Janet H. Doughty to support an undergraduate student in forestry.

Kylie Campbell

Peter P. Feret Memorial Scholarship

Established by family and friends in memory of Dr. Peter P. Feret Sr., faculty member and advisor. Awarded to a sophomore, junior, or senior enrolled in the Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation.

Hayley Ridpath

Richard Foster Urban Forestry Scholarship

Established by Grupo Phoenix, this scholarship is awarded to undergraduates majoring in packaging systems and design with an interest in working in the polymer and packaging industry.

Allison Chen

Keith Montminy

Hardwood Manufacturers Association Scholarship

The Hardwood Manufacturers Association Scholarship is intended to recognize, encourage, and provide financial assistance to an incoming freshman or sophomore majoring in forest products marketing.

Jalen Hill

Geza Ifju Scholarship in Wood Science and Forest Products

Dr. Geza Ifju was the founding department head of the Department of Wood Science and Forest Products (now the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials). Family, friends, and alumni have provided contributions for this endowed scholarship in his honor.

Steven Morrissette

Lora L. and Martin N. Kelley Family Scholarship

This scholarship was established by the Lora and Martin Kelley family to support undergraduate students in the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials who have demonstrated high academic achievement, a record of professional activities, and engagement in the university community.

Danitza Rodriguez

Frank Miller Lumber Company Freshmen Scholarship

Established by the Frank Miller Lumber Company to support students in the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials, with a preference given to freshmen.

Morgan Lumber Company Management Team Scholarship

Morgan Lumber Company is a privately held manufacturer of southern yellow pine lumber. The scholarship was endowed by the company's management team to assist with the cost of tuition to an outstanding student in the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials. The recipient must have prior work experience through a job, summer internship, or co-op. Preference is given to students with experience in softwoods and solid wood products. The Morgan Lumber Company Management Team Scholarship is the second Morgan Lumber Company scholarship to be endowed with the department.

Steven Morrissette

George and Mary Ragsdale Scholarship

Awarded to undergraduate and graduate students based upon potential and interest in contributing to the forest industry.

Anna Sadowski

Steven A. Sinclair Memorial Endowed Scholarship

Steven A. Sinclair was a professor with the Department of Wood Science and Forest Products (now the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials) and an internationally recognized leader in the field of forest products marketing. Dr. Sinclair started the forest products marketing program at Virginia Tech in the early 1980s. He also initiated the Center for Forest Products Marketing and Management (now the Center for Forest Products Business) and served as its first director. Because of Dr. Sinclair's interest in forest products marketing research, this scholarship is awarded to an outstanding graduate student studying the area or to an outstanding undergraduate who plans to attend graduate school to study forest products marketing.

Lillian Petzold

E. George and Marianne Stern and Jean Stern Fromberg Memorial Scholarship

This scholarship is in memory of E. George and Marianne Stern and Jean Stern Fromberg. Dr. Stern was the former director of the Sardo Pallet and Container Research Laboratory at Virginia Tech. The late Jean Fromberg was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stern. The scholarship, which was endowed by Mrs. Stern, the Stern family, and friends of the family, is awarded to a deserving student in the department based on academic performance, financial need, and professional promise.

Samuel Gillispie

Tanner Hay

Virginia Forest Products Association Scholarship

This scholarship is presented by the Virginia Forest Products Association, an industry group that supports forest products enterprises in the Commonwealth of Virginia. The scholarship supports a promising sustainable biomaterials student who has an interest in working with the Virginia forest products industry.

Scholarships Provided Through The Virginia Forestry Educational Foundation (VFEF)

VFEF John D. Farmer Scholarship

Established by the Virginia Forestry Educational Foundation to honor the contributions of John D. Farmer and his role in forestry in Virginia, and contributions to the foundation in his service as president. Awarded to students in a Society of American Foresters accredited curriculum.

Justin Mays

VFEF Georgia-Pacific Corporation Scholarship

Established by the Georgia-Pacific Corporation and administered by the Virginia Forestry Education Foundation. Awarded to students in a Society of American Foresters accredited curriculum.

Cameron Phelps

VFEF John F. Hosner Scholarship

Established by the Virginia Forestry Educational Foundation to honor the contributions of Dr. John F. Hosner to forestry in Virginia and his role at Virginia Tech. Dr. Hosner became the head of a fledgling Department of Forestry and Wildlife in 1961 with four faculty members. With his vision and drive, he was instrumental in growing the department to the School of Forestry and Wildlife Resources, which ultimately became the College of Forestry and Wildlife Resources, now known as the College of Natural Resources and Environment.

Seth Parris

VFEF Morgan Lumber Company Scholarship

Established with an endowment from the Morgan Lumber Company. Awarded to a student in the Department of Sustainable Biomaterials.

Haemi Lee

Jacob Zalewski

VFEF Victor W. Stewart Scholarship

Established by the Virginia Forestry Educational Foundation in recognition of the contribution of Victor W. Stewart to forestry in Virginia. Awarded to students in the Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation.

Brent Hawks

VFEF Mable Beard Stuermann Scholarship Fund

Established by the Virginia Forestry Educational Foundation to honor Mrs. Mable B. Stuermann. Awarded to students in a Society of American Foresters accredited curriculum.

Seth Parris

William August Stuermann and Mable Beard Stuermann Scholarship Fund

Established to support rising sophomores who have demonstrated a sincere interest in the management of the forest land base in the Commonwealth of Virginia. These scholarships are for three years. In order to be considered for this scholarship, recipients must be enrolled in Virginia Tech's Department of Forest Resources and Environmental Conservation, in a Society of American Foresters accredited curriculum. Selection is based on academic achievement or potential for superior academic achievement, leadership qualities, and desire to pursue a career in the forestry profession.

ALUMNI RECOGNITIONSRecent Alumni Award—Graduate Degree

The recipient of this award is chosen by the Virginia Tech Alumni Association and presented annually to a recent master's or doctoral graduate of the college, recognizing early career accomplishments.

Alexander L. Miller (M.S 2009, Agricultural and Applied Economics and B.S. 2006, Fisheries Science and Environmental Policy and Planning)

Alex's master's research focused on commercial oyster aquaculture in Virginia, and he received the International Association of Aquaculture Economics and Management Best Master's Thesis Award. Prior to graduation and during his time at Virginia Tech, he worked for the Smithsonian Institution, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and the Louis Berger Group Inc.

Since graduation, Alex has focused his professional career on marine resources, the seafood industry, and the technology industry, working for the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission, the Global Food Traceability Center, and TruFund Financial Services. Currently, Alex is the vice president of business development for Trace Register, which is a proven global seafood traceability and data analytics solution for seafood companies in over 56 countries. He has published peer-reviewed articles, and his work has been featured in a variety of outlets including Food Safety Magazine and The Wall Street Journal.

Alex also donates his time, benefitting entities such as the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Louisiana State University, and Rotary International. Originally from Gloucester, Virginia, Alex now lives with his wife, Sara, and daughter Afton, in Ocean Springs, Mississippi.

FACULTY RECOGNITIONS

(Nominations submitted by students and college clubs and organizations)

Outstanding Advisor Award

Advising is an important component of the multiple duties that faculty members undertake. Advisors need to know the layout of campus and where students can go for assistance with different academic, emotional, and health issues. Advisors need to be familiar with courses taught not only within their department and college, but university courses as well. Advisors need to be familiar with all aspects of course registration, and they need to care for the well-being of their students, among many other things.

Sarah Karpanty, Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation

As an advisor and graduate program coordinator, Associate Professor Sarah Karpanty is fully dedicated to her students, helping them make the most of their time both in and out of the classroom. She encourages students to pursue undergraduate research projects, summer jobs, internships, and study abroad, sharing upcoming opportunities and helping them with applications and written recommendations. Comments from her students include:

“Sarah Karpanty is not only the most outstanding advisor but also one of the most amazing women I have ever met. She is intelligent, thoughtful, kind, supportive, and cares about her students very much. She has taught me what it looks like to pursue your passions and make a difference in conservation as well as the lives of others.”

“Sarah’s enthusiasm for science, learning, and life is infectious. She is always looking for new ways for her students to get a leg up in their research and future careers. At the same time, she recognizes the importance of life outside of school/work and encourages all of her students to take a step back every once in awhile.”

“Sarah is one of the most dedicated faculty members I have seen. Not only does she take great care in supporting her numerous graduate students, she also advises, supports, and encourages undergraduate students. She is always willing to meet and talk, and does an outstanding job at balancing her numerous obligations.”

Outstanding Teaching Award

The college curriculum clubs annually honor a teacher in recognition of dynamic teaching ability, excellent professional attitude to teaching, and outstanding student relationships.

David Carroll, Department of Geography

Advanced Instructor Dave Carroll teaches the weather forecasting course sequence in the Department of Geography, including the ever-popular Hokie Storm Chase each spring. According to one of his students, “He always goes out of his way to give help in any way possible for all his students.” Others echo that sentiment:

“His passion makes it very easy to learn from him and soak up all the information he believes is the most important. He sacrifices his free time every summer to take three vans full of students out to the Great Plains to chase storms and gather scientific data. There are many other ways he could be spending his summers, but he would rather further our knowledge and make our experiences more unique to employers. Dave selflessly puts his students ahead of everything and deeply cares for every single one.”

“After four years of knowing Dave, I have run out of superlatives to describe his excellence as a teacher, a mentor, and a person. He is a man of near limitless patience. My working relationship with Dave as a graduate student in geography was one of the most productive and enjoyable I have ever had. Ask any current or former student about Dave and you will hear similar stories. We all owe him an immeasurable debt of gratitude. As the meteorology program at Virginia Tech continues to grow, so too will Dave's legacy of inspiring passion and excellence in the students lucky enough to cross his path."

Certificate of Teaching Excellence

Certificates of Teaching Excellence are awarded annually by the university to faculty members selected by the individual colleges. This award recognizes faculty who excel in the classroom, creating an innovative and welcoming environment where students can learn and reach their potential

Marcella Kelly, Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation, is the recipient of this year's Certificate of Teaching Excellence award. Known for her work with big cats, she focuses on carnivore population ecology, management, and conservation. She believes that incorporating active learning while using practical examples is a very effective way to teach students about wildlife research and the scientific process.

Kelly developed the Population Dynamics and Estimation course into a rigorous, quantitative class. She took the existing course, Wildlife Techniques, and converted it from a lecture/lab-based class into a blended class, with seven 3-hour lectures followed by an intensive 10-day field experience in which students conduct mini-research projects and take the scientific process from the preliminary stages to the final product. She also has developed a graduate class, Parameter Estimation, to provide graduate students instruction in emerging, cutting-edge analytical methods in the field. She developed a study abroad course in Belize that has been taught five times.

Kelly is the recipient of the Philadelphia Zoo's Global Conservation Leader Award, and she has hosted high school students from the zoo's CREW (Champions for Restoring Endangered Wildlife) program on campus, where they had the opportunity to work with animals, gain professional skills, and learn more about careers in wildlife conservation. Her excellent teaching is reflected in her receiving the departmental curriculum club outstanding teacher recognition four times.
